MAURER'S CROCKERY ESTABLISHMENT Council Bluffs Proudly Claims the Largest

and Best in the State. Just think of it! 13,000 square feet of lamber just for the flooring on the second floor alone-equal to 2 or 3 miles of 12-inch boards.

From this one item some idea may be had of the extensiveness of the great crockery establishment of W. A. Mau-rer, who has just moved into his new building, Nos. 342 and 344 Broadway. There are 19,200 square feet of flooring in the building.

Is it any wonder that Council Bluffs takes pride in pointing to this estabment as the largest and most complete of any in the west in this line? The building is a substantial brick structure, with four stories, a double width frontage, large plate glass display widows, and attractive entrance, but it is only when one travels through the mazes of the interior that an adequate idea is gaired of its extent, attractiveness and completeness.

The main floor, devoted to the pur poses of a salesroom, excites the special enthusiasm of the aesthetic visitor. It is large, airy and light, and is finished plainly but richly in antique oak. The beauty of finish is almost lost sight of in the natural admiration of the dazzling, bewitching display of beautiful and varied wares—a bewilderment of pleasing colorings and graceful designs-novalties and substantial-making really an exposition of itself which beguiles an hour of the visitor's time before one re-

In the rear is the office room, arranged with business like completeness and compactness. It, too, is finished in antique oak.

The art room is a little neauty. It is inished in abony and plate mirrors, with walls of maroon and rich graceful araperies. Here are displayed rare treasures of art, elegant and varied bric-a-brac and exquisitely cut glass. Royal Worcester, Dresden, Doulton, Brownes, etc.

Great as is the enthusiasm aroused in one who enjoys the beautiful, it is fully equalled by that of the one who enjoys the practical. The merchant and business man is no less enthusiastic over the extent of the stock and its arrangement. The second floor, for instance, best illustrates this. Bin after bin, aisle after aisic, shelf upon shelf, each properly placarded, impress one not only with the great quantity and variety of stock, but with the business like methods for headlift. ness-like methods for handling it. So complete is the arrangement that the stock men can see at a glance the condition and quantity of each kind of goods, and shipping clerks and packers can almost fill orders in the dark, everything having a place and everything in its place. The arrangements for filling orders promotly and accurately are indeed worthy of study and imitation.

The other floors are likewise crowded with goods, but there is no confusion apparent anywhere, and visitors familiar with the details of other great crockery establishments enthusiastically pronouce it the best arranged of any they have seen. Council Bluffs can also boast of having in Mr. Maurer one of the largest importers west of Chicago. It was largely due to his efforts and to the amount of his importations that this city has been made a port of delivery. His wholesale trade reaches throughout the west. Be-sides his building on Broadway he has large warehouses located conveniently on the tracks, so that in all ways he is in condition to handle his rapidly ina. casing business.

Motor Trains Finally Operated on South First Street.

HOW THE OCCASION WAS OBSERVED

After the Citizens Along the Line Had Concluded Their Demonstrations the Officers of the Road Were Cited for Contempt.

A construction train was the first to make the round trip over the motor line on South First street. At 10 o'clock Thursday night the trip was made, and the train was greeted with wild demonstrations of joy by the residents of the street. They had tried to get fireworks during the day, and expected to have a smail-scale Fourth of July in honor of the completion of the work, but as the store keepers had not yet received their stock they had to be content with getting down the old guns and pistols that had been unused for a long time for anything excepting shooting burgiars. The firing of gunpowder and the yelling of those who had nothing to fire off in the shape of arms made things lively in the vicinity until about mid-

Yesterday's developments, however, show that possibly the residents of First street whistied before they got out of the woods. An information was nied in the superior To the array in the afternoon charging John T. Stewart and A. K. Stone, the president and general manager of the road, with contempt of court, The information alleges that Stewart, Stone and the defendants of the Council Bloffs and Omaha Bridge com the Council Bloffs and Omaha Bridge com-pany violated the injunction issued from the superior court restraining the operation of the electric line in front of the Bixby prop-erty on South First street, and are now violating it hourly. Mrs. Bixby, the plaintiff in the case, demands that an order be issued to Stewart and Stone compelling them to appear in court and show cause why they should not be punished for contempt; that the city marshal be instructed to enforce the mandate of the court by prevent-ing the trains from being run, and that the detendants, after a hearing, be punished for contempt. The defendants were served with notices of the filing of the information, and they will be brought before Judge McGee this morning at 10 o'clock for a hearing upon the charge which is preferred against them

The people who spent all day yesterday in riding back and forth on the First street line are now congratulating themselves that they made hay while the sun shone, for last evening the order to the city marshal which was prayed for was served upon the management of the motor company, and the running of trains was stopped just about the time a good many people were going to their sup-

While all this trouble is going on the park commissioners, headed by A. C. Graham, are standing by looking on and wondering where standing by looking on able to insert their oar. they are going to be able to insert their oar.

"Just anow us a little opening, and we'll put a crowbar in and help all we can," said rangem yesterday. "We've spent $4,000 on Fairment park, and we don't want it lying idie any longer than it has to." Some of the property owners on the street have suggested that a subline be started just above Bixby's residence, and that transfers be given from the main line, which would then end just below Bixby's place. In case all other devices fail, there is a possibility of surmount-ing the uifficulty in this way and enabling railway travel to be resumed along the entire street, with the exception of the sixty feet in front of Bixby's.
